of the defense attempt to

Neil W. Hughes of Lima, former Judge of the court of appeals and a lifelong friend of Judge Justice, praised him as a friend and an associate, and for his loyalty and staunchness in his friendships. Judge Justice, he said, was a lover of the outdoors, not only as a sportsman but as an admirer of nature, and always was courteous and kind.

Prosecutor in 1900
Fred F. Guthery of Marion also reviewed the life history of Judge Justice. Following Mr. Justice's graduation from the University of Michigan and his admittance to the Ohio state bar in 1900, he came to Marion to become associated with the law firm of Scofield, Durfee & Scofield. Two years later he opened his own office, later becoming a partner in the firm of Justice & Young. This firm later became Justice, Young & Nouser. He was prosecutor of Marion county from 1905 to 1912, was appointed common pleas judge, and in 1926 was elected judge of the court of appeals.

Mr. Guthery praised Judge Justice as an energetic worker possessing a keen, analytical mind. He recognized, Mr. Guthery said, his great responsibility as a Judge. Mr. Justice was prominent in fraternal organizations, having been state head of the Knights of Pythias and Elks Order.

Judge George B. Scofield of Marion recalled his associations with Judge Justice when the latter came to Marion to work in the law firm of Scofield, Durfee & Scofield to "learn the ropes." He possessed the faculty that all wish for but few have—that of thinking and reasoning friends, Judge Scofield said. He also praised him as a tireless worker and a keen student of law.

Judge Justice's six years on the appellate bench were reviewed by Judge Phil M. Crow of Kenton, a Judge of the appellate court. He possessed a sound, discriminating judgment and an analytical mind free from bias, Judge Crow said. "His guiding star was consistency and certainty," Judge Crow said. "He belonged to that school of thought which holds that it were better the law be unchanged than that it be uncertain."

Patient, Tolerant
He also praised his kindly, patient, courteous and tolerant manner of receiving those who took cases in the appellate court.

Judge Crow brought copies of the memorial resolution of the Allen county bar association to the local bar association and to relatives of Judge Justice.

Judges Walter Kinder of Findlay, Phil M. Crow of Kenton and William Kilinger of Lima, all judges of the appellate court, and Common Pleas Judge George H. Scofield presided for the joint session. Walter M. Bowman of Lima, bailiff for the court of appeals, opened and closed the session. Speakers were presented to the court by Frank Wederman, president of the Marion County Bar association.

Among those in the audience were Chester Fondren of Findlay, whose name will replace that of Judge Justice on the ballot next year as a candidate for the court of appeals.

ELY CALLS AL SMITH "A MAN WHO DARES"

Happy Warrior Placed in Nomination by Governor of Massachusetts.

By The Associated Press
CHICAGO, July 1—Shouting
"Give us a man who dares," Governor Joseph B. Ely of Massachusetts placed yesterday in nomination for president at the Democratic national convention Alfred E. Smith, the "happy warrior" candidate of 1928.

"A modern Andrew Jackson positive, straight-speaking, plain-thinking statesman," Smith was called by his nominator. "Even his enemies recognize the comparison. Every editorial written in the United States lauds the starting quality of his personality. The great constitutional lawyers of his day acknowledge his divine gift of government."

Smith alone, of all the candidates offered to the party, maintained Ely has been "as utterly bold" as to disregard his political future in proposing a clean cut, definite program for the government to follow in attaining the country's economic recovery. Smith alone, he held, has the spirit which must be offered "in contrast with the wavering doubtful, disheartening conduct of the Republican administration."

Ely swung into vigorous attack on religious intolerance, maintaining that though the question should have no place in American politics, it was necessary to mention "any subject that might affect your decision," including Smith's Catholic church affiliation.

He maintained that Massachusetts had spoken out clearly and that he believed the entire industrial east joined in discarding the prejudices of our Protestant ancestors against entituting the government to one of another faith.
Ely concluded then by reciting what he termed Smith's creed as an "American Catholic," which begins:

"I believe in the worship of God according to the faith and practice of the Roman Catholic church."

"I recognize no power in the institutions of my church to interfere with the operations of the constitution of the United States or the enforcement of the law of the land."

CLAIMS COTTON KING
By Edith Green
CHICAGO—Cotton still king, according to Mrs. E. H. Miller, only woman crop expert and statistician in the United States. She asserts that without cotton, the balance of trade during the 50 years between the close of the Civil war and the outbreak of the World war would have been $3,000,000,000 against the United States instead of $100,000,000 in our favor.

Women of the Marion County Federation of Women's clubs and the King Daughters groups of the city today issued an appeal for cans and jars which may be used for canning by families of the unemployed. The appeal was made by Mrs. C. V. Hartman, chairman of the home economics department of the federation and Mrs. French Crow, head of the City Union of King's Daughters, who will be in charge of the project.

VITAMIN B IN BRAN. RESEARCH REVEALS

Also Has "Bulk" to Further Assist Elimination, and Iron for Blood

One of the functions of Vitamin B is to help tone the intestinal tract and promote elimination. Now laboratory experiments show Kellogg's All-Bran contains this valuable vitamin.

In addition, All-Bran brings a plentiful supply of "bulk"—which provides the "bulky" needed to evacuate the intestines.

This "bulk" in All-Bran is similar to that of lettuce. Inside the body, it is different from the way you see it in the package. It absorbs moisture, and forms a soft mass which gently clears the intestines of wastes. Special cooking processes make All-Bran finer, milder, more palatable.

Another healthful element brought by All-Bran is iron. Tests show this cereal has twice as much available iron as the same weight of beef liver.

Texan's Name Placed in Nomination by Senator Tom Connally.

By the Associated Press
CHICAGO, July 1.—John Garner of Texas, Tex., was nominated for the presidency yesterday with the assertion that he would take courageous experience and capable leadership to the White House.

There was a prolonged shout from the Texas and California delegations and applause elsewhere over the wide floor as Senator Tom Connally from Garner's home state presented the name of the speaker of the house to the Democratic convention.

The supreme hour calls for a man, Senator Connally told the delegates.

Weak and wavering vacillation must give way to a leader with a sense of direction and determination to reach his destination. It is really all we want, neither a sycophant nor a miracle man. Charms and incantations have lost their force.

In answer to that call, Texans present to this convention a Texan, a true Democrat, a militant leader of men of the people.

Connally blamed the present administration for the wreckage of business and industry and agriculture wrought by blundering policies and keeping and befuddled Republican leadership.

In such a desperate hour, America turns to Democracy, he said, attributing to Speaker Garner a monumental grasp of national affairs and necessities evolved from his 30 years in the house.

Garner stood as the most aggressive opponent of the policies of Andrew Mellon in three administrations, the Texan said.

Byrd's Name Placed Before Convention

By the Associated Press
CHICAGO, July 1.—Harry Flood Byrd of Virginia was selected to the Democratic party last night as a candidate for the presidency who as governor of Virginia made a record never surpassed in the entire history of the state.

What Byrd did for Virginia he would do for the country if nominated by this convention and elected by the people, said Senator Carter Glass in placing Byrd in nomination before the convention. He reminded that Thomas Jefferson and Patrick Henry were once Virginians.

A confirmed expert in business methods tested in the problems of public taxation, he would inaugurate at Washington a wise and provident and honest pay-as-you-go administration which the Democratic party would be proud of and from which the entire nation would derive the blessings of a better hope and the comfortment of permanent recovery.

WHEAT SLIDES TO LOW LEVEL

Prices Skid as General Liquidation Takes Place at Chicago.

By The Associated Press
CHICAGO, July 1—Topped over by heavy deliveries on July wheat futures were aggregating more than $100,000 bushels, grain prices had dropped to near low record levels.

General liquidation of July wheat contracts was in progress. Today's grain price estimates in effect in the United States would have 325,000,000 bushels of wheat available for export in the 1932-33 season.

July unofficial crop estimates regarding domestic wheat production were as follows: The average population forecasts were 100,000,000 bushels for winter wheat 274,000,000 bushels for spring totaling 700,000,000 bushels as compared with 880,000,000 officially indicated a month ago. The new average official crop condition figures were 60.2 per cent for winter wheat and 64.2 per cent for spring against June official estimates of 67.8 per cent and 65.2 per cent respectively.

Corn production for 1932 was unofficially forecast as 3,085,000,000 bushels as judged by the averages of the various reports. This contrasted with 2,937,000,000 harvested last year. The picture of the new private reports put the condition of the corn crop at 80 per cent compared with a 10 year average of 81%. Oats and rye were also sympathizing with wheat and corn.

Death Chamber Proves Its Power to Kill Every Fly or Mosquito

In the Rev. Research laboratory there is a small room kept filled with flies at their most vigorous—five days old. Each lot of Fly-Tox is tested here with a sprayer. Unless every fly dies, and quickly, that lot of Fly-Tox is rejected.

That's why Fly-Tox is so certain, so economical to you. Rightly sprayed in a room, it creates a perfumed mist, which no fly or mosquito can escape. That mist is harmless to people, stainless to anything. But these deadly pests—keep it free—for the sake of all who live there.

The mahogany desk from which samples of photography and painting address are those of President Harding signing the German peace treaty at the home of Senator Joseph S. Prellwitz in New Jersey, the joint session of Congress assembled to pay tribute to the memory of the President, the original drawings of a number of newspaper cartoons appearing during the Harding administration, and photographs of Laelde Boy, the White House pet.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Fred Dombaugh, who are in charge of the home and museum, stated that they are anxious to have Marion residents visit the home. Those who have visited it nearly always bring their out-of-town guests to the home, they explained. A number of Marionites have brought as many as a dozen groups of visitors to the home in the last few years.

The private flag of the President, richly woven of heavy silk, given by Rodman Wanamaker, a New York merchant, is hanging from a wall in the museum. It will be cleaned in a glass frame in the near future to preserve it. The presidential seal is embroidered on the front of the flag.

Mr. Harding's golf clubs, several of them presented to him by friends from all parts of the world, are shown. The President also has a basket filled with golf balls autographed by governors of states and mayors of cities.

A lamp and shade made by the boys at the Moose Home in Moonbeam, Ill., used in a reception room in the White House, is on display. The lamp is made of intricately carved wood.

NEVER before have we had a general sale in Miller-Jones stores. Our policy is against sales—except when they are absolutely necessary and based upon actual merchandising truths. Conditions have caused many well-laid plans to go astray this year. Retarded buying has failed to clear shelves fast enough—Distress merchandise of unknown quality at ridiculous prices has blocked the ordinary "outlet" channels of all large operators. So temporarily we shall be our own "outlet" for surplus stocks, which virtually means wholesale clearance prices for retail buyers.

Director Draws New Rules for Garbage Department

Uncapher Compiles Set of 14 Regulations To Put Service on Self-Supporting Basis; Fee To Run main at $1.80 a Quarter.

Declaring the garbage collection department of the city to be in effect a cooperative institution, Service Director E. O. Uncapher who is also supervisor of the garbage & refuse department has issued a set of 14 rules governing the collection of garbage and rubbish in the city, the enforcement of which he declared will be necessary if the department is to be made self-supporting without increasing the cost to the subscribers.

The rules are being printed and a copy will be given to each subscriber by the service director in going over their routes next week. Each new subscriber will also be furnished with a copy of the service director's set.

Amount Fixed

The first rule of the 14 fixes the amount of garbage the department will collect each week from one ton to 10 gallon fee to remain the same $1.80 a quarter payable in advance. Steps will be taken to see the service director and to prevent two families from using the same garbage can.

The rules also ask that the garbage be placed in tight fitting cans and that it be confined to garbage alone and not broken glass, rocky cans and razor blades. The garbage service director said is fed to hogs and fer-

Believing as he does in the principle of popular government he further supports me in saying that in his judgment the question of the retention or repeal of the Eighteenth amendment should be again submitted to the people for decision by the congress at the earliest practicable moment.

Governor Lauded in Seconding Speech

By Associated Press

CHICAGO STADIUM July 1.—The women of Ohio feel they may render a real service to their fellow citizens in this hour of need by offering to the nation one stalwart governor. Mrs. Josie Phineas McGraw of Dayton, O., said last night in seconding the nomination of Governor George White at the Democratic convention.

Miss McGraw pointed the gasp that she who had the blinding cold holds as Arctic I. kind of just a rock of old fashioned common sense. She is of judgment and of understanding sympathetic in touch. I am that is the man.

Recalling that George Wm. the 10th former Senate Alton Pomerene of Marion who gave White his name before the present convention in the delegate delegation from Ohio said then this summer that Houston's contention it has been settled in favor of the United States and the deciding vote in 1918.

That may be just a masculine quill but if it is true then the women of Marion will be something to answer for.

If women hold the balance of power it is to be hoped that they will use it intelligently well on July 2nd to assist in furthering the welfare and the well-being of the country.

The Stars Say—

For Saturday July 2

An interesting and progressive day is in prospect, judging by the other transit. There is a probability of a sudden opportunity for change transients, and with the financial prospects well toward P. on the other hand there is a sign of some stubborn obstacle opposition or postpone. It may be some slight difficulty in the air and also there is a need of caution in handling papers less than a fortnight be practical.

Those whose birthday it is may be suddenly confronted by an opportunity for change transients, and these should be expected to better the financial status. Democratic Party Becomes Hiking Club for Parades

BY BRIAN BELL,
Associated Press Writer

CHICAGO July 1—When all the parades in the Chicago stadium were laid and to end there were a lot of sore feet. Many Democrats have done more walking in the last 24 hours than they had done in 21 days. The mileage was impressive.

The unnumbered parades unarmored and simply going for the walk were amateurs. The men and women carrying a flag standard in one hand and a rattle tambourine or bell in the other were the pros. They lost their amateur standing at some other convention many years ago.

The Chicago stadium with a few thousand occupants no doubt is a comfortable place in which to watch a sporting event especially a horkey game. Pack 25,000 to 30,000 persons around and above the arena and it is something else again. It is not enough sitting still with a ram on each side. Only the rugged can parade under such conditions.

paper before it was officially made public. Welsh denied this repeatedly in an interchange of absolute questions and answers.

With the defense failing to depict their client as a victim of third degree methods the state hoped to finish its case today.

The trial apparently will go over to next week with the defense now undecided whether to put Curtis on the stand. If he testifies Col. Lindbergh may be recalled as a rebuttal witness.

Defends Treatment

Police Capt. J. J. Lash was cross-examined yesterday by Fisher who sought to show Curtis was questioned when too tired to think and that he was forced to sleep in a damp cellar at the Lindbergh home.

Lamb grinned broadly. He was treated most courteously, he said.

We ate with Col. Lindbergh and myself. I asked him if he wanted anything to drink and the troopers gave him orange juice when he wanted it.

Lamb disclosed that he does not know who the kidnappers are.

BOWERY CONDITIONS DESCRIBED IN TALK

Salvation Army Speaker Lectures Here on "Gangs of New York"

Old days in the Bowery were shown by Colonel Wallace Winchell in connection with his lecture Gangs of New York last night at the Salvation Army hall on West Center street. The hall was filled to capacity for the lecture which was illustrated with lantern slides.

There are more banks than speakeasies in the Bowery section today, Colonel Winchell told his audience. He told of his training in London and of his work as a social service man in the tenement districts of New York. Since 1920 he has been in charge of the district work with headquarters in the 10-story Salvation Army meadow hotel.

Since prohibition Winchell said working men demand the standard of excellence which is provided by the Salvation Army hotel.

Colonel Winchell will speak tonight on Fools of Fear and on Saturday night his subject will be Six Months with Hoover in Bel

Constitutional Authority

Few Americans are interested in what Representative James M. Beck of Pennsylvania foresees. Constitutional authority has to say about the date of that great document than in what others are planning to do in it directly and indirectly. Mr. Beck's analysis requires thought. The proposals of the others call for action. Thought is ever the keen in such a context of interest.

In the last of a series of six lectures on The United States Constitution as an Exponent in Democracy, Representative Beck told listeners at Cambridge University, London, that the Constitution as a living organism is in process of deterioration and not of growth. When and if it dies there must be claimed in the headstone marking its resting place: Killed by the Complexity of Modern Civilization—in Loving Memory.

Born of an unique union of abstract political thought and recognized first principles. Its death is being hastened day by day by an unholy but irresistible combination of pragmatism, centralism and bureaucratization. Attendants at the bedside try as they will can not put on a cheerful countenance. Mr. Beck admits they are waiting for the end, that when it comes so quietly will the temper tried, few will realize it is time for wailing.

In other words, it is a double decline that is taking place. That of the Constitution is less important than the other, which is the atrophy of that once vital part of the nation's spirit which found expression in the words of the document. Says Mr. Beck concerning the possibility of replacing either the spirit of the document I fear we could not repeat the success of the convention of 1787 and this is only due to the fact that with the decay of leadership—due largely to universal suffrage and a change in the character of the electorate—we have not public statesmen who are comparable with the statesmen of 1787, but also because we could no longer make any successful attempt to embody the needs of a highly complex age in a written form of government without the possibility of infinite follies. And in justice.

Americans leap to the question before the case is heard. What is to be done? Mr. Beck presents only a halting answer to both the doubt he puts into his irritating activity. He only is able to suggest that the end will be hastened if the planetary system of the states be wholly absorbed in the central sun of the central government. In all the prospect before the eyes of the people there is but one sign that the tide of responsibility flowing from the states to Washington may be stemmed. The growing movement to turn the responsibilities of liquor control back to the states. And that is not in the interest of the Constitution, but of a problem which has arisen under the Constitution.

Minority Report.

The opinions of John D. Rockefeller Jr. on the failure of prohibition have been accepted by acclamation at least as the nation's majority report on its most discussed problem. Mr. Rockefeller's statement, broadcast into every corner of the land by newspapers, magazines and newsmen, has become part of the creed of anti-prohibitionists. It is familiar also to prohibitionists who have recognized it as a major blow to their cause.

Amos W. Woodcock, prohibition director, has come forward with part of the substance of a minority report consisting mostly of comment on Mr. Rockefeller's opinions. It is Mr. Woodcock's contention based on his wide experience as the individual directly responsible for federal enforcement that Mr. Rockefeller has been misled by misinformation. Granted that the prohibition director could not be expected to do anything but defend his department and its purposes his remarks deserve attention.

Mr. Woodcock is not willing to grant that drunkenness has increased since passage of the 18th amendment. Obviously it is a matter of opinion no statement on that point can be proved. The director of prohibition probably knows as much about it as the nation's best known capitalist.

Again Mr. Woodcock takes issue with Mr. Rockefeller's statement that there are more speakeasies in operation today than there were among before prohibition. It has been a part of the director's duty to ascertain facts on this point. He is at least as well qualified to state an opinion therefore as Mr. Rockefeller.

On another and an important claim—that crime is financed by illegal sale of liquor—Mr. Woodcock disagrees admitting that the actual situation defies analysis but denying that Mr. Rockefeller knows more than he does about it.

The prohibition director's minority report shows what should have been realized more generally at the time Mr. Rockefeller's opinion was given to the people—that it is not more nor less than the judgment of an eminent American and subject, therefore to error. Unfortunately opinions on both sides of the prohibition issue are compounded largely of feeling with few dependable facts available.

One Certain Remedy.

In his address to members of the Marion Chamber of Commerce this week, Mr. Paul D. Cole of Friday didn't just say an expert on economics and consequently did not pressure to map out a path for the city to emerge from its failing business times.

He did though, and stressed is "the point upon which all citizens seem to agree. He referred to reduction in government costs as a necessary step toward a sound condition."

In all discussion of the present state of affairs whether by the personally well informed and able to analyze conditions and their causes or by the general run of a crowd of who necessarily view such matters superficially the consensus is that lack of proportion between taxes and the public's ability to pay is one of the most serious drawbacks of the nation.

That ought to be an almost easily remedied. It is in fact for which the citizen himself can and must do his own physician. The public office holder is doing his job solely through the aid and support of the electorate and his service should be performed accordingly. If he proves incapable or unwilling to meet the cost of public business on a basis commensurate with its source of income his removal by those who employed him should be the natural consequence.

In private business this step would be taken immediately. With the public in the absence of such facilities for all there must be delay until election day. And even then the remedy is not always applied. In that event the patient should cease complaining about his aches and pains.

Although it is customary and in every way appropriate to open national political convention sessions with prayer, in many instances there is apparently more to pray about after the proceedings are over.

The Year of the Big Deficit

It is all over—the fiscal year 1931-32—all over but the payments to the installment collector. It will go down in history at home and abroad as the year the United States had the big deficit.

Without counting in money paid by the Reconstruction Finance Corp., the increase in the national debt the last 12 months amounts to $2000,000,000 including loans made to private business. It is well over $30,000,000—the greatest entry ever made anywhere in red ink.

Starting with the first day of July, the government starts to keep its accounts on a clean piece of paper but no amount of erasing can obliterate the traces of the crimson smudge that records in the nation's treasury the most disastrous fiscal year of all time.

It is well that it cannot be forgotten. Every day in virtually every place where people spend money it will be impressed on public memory that the rich nation by its own errors has made itself a tax-ridden nation. As long as the burden of tax falls on the nation's shoulders there is a possibility of reform.

That the deficit will be recovered in time no one doubts. That another deficit of similar proportions ever may be incurred no American doubts. It is small solace at best to believe that this nation has learned its lesson about the necessity for a basis of taxation broad enough to provide for an emergency.

The experience of the woman bank clerk at Woodstock, O., who was awakened at 3 a.m. by robbers and forced to accompany them on their trip to her lines of employment seems to indicate that the so-called bankers' hours are not always the most desirable.

While there may be a difference of opinion on whether Schmidling was handed a raw deal in the recent heavyweight championship contest, there seems to be absolute unanimous agreement that something of the kind went to the people who paid for admission tickets.

Although the Democratic platform establishes record for braggarts in all other respects it probably will go down in history in the same category with other similar compilations of party pledges.

Business generally may not benefit from the Chicago political conventions, but there ought to be an immediate big demand for blown out radio tubes.

Comment of the Press

WHERE DEPRESSION IS NOT

There are three countries in the world on behalf of which it is claimed by their own authorities and people that they feel no depression, but are more prosperous and happy than ever before. These countries are Northern Ireland or Ulster, Bulgaria and Yugoslavia. Northern Ireland is largely industrial and the world's needs and demands has not used up products. The government will be joyful and well supported by all classes in its administration, content and satisfaction. In Bulgaria the people will not go on building as it is now and fact that with their savings and their savings such as tobacco, alms of some kind, grain, are in good demand. And to illustrate we have in the New York Times the word of Mr. Ernest Nathan a member of the World War 21st congressional who has just returned from a visit to the country. In the fact that there is an unusual calm in there and that it is contentedly free from the effect of depression.

It is a relief to know that in certain parts of the world where depression is not felt. The country named at all, a small size, aatively to our own and the last few years that are getting along under the pressure of inflation of their small debts enable them to live in comfort. Proper Care of Children's Feet Important

Most adults realize that proper care of the feet is important and that good foot health is necessary for happiness but too little attention is given the feet of children.

This neglect may cause unhealthy conditions of the feet as the child grows older and may upset the child's nervous system and cause all sorts of physical disabilities.

Many children are born with weak feet but poor posture in walking and wearing improper shoes are the most common causes. Stout children are more likely to have weak and aching feet than thin children for they place a greater burden on the arches and muscles of the feet.

Children who have flat feet should wear special shoes. A flat foot in a foot with weak and relaxed muscles whose arch is not properly supported. This weakness should be corrected by special shoes designed to strengthen and support the weak arch.

In addition to wearing such shoes children with flat feet should be instructed in the proper exercises to correct this deformity. These exercises at first should be meant to healthy feet causing the muscles of the foot to become weak. The shoe should be of simple design, broad in the toe and straight on the inner side of the heel and broad. The shoe should fit snugly in the arch and loosely at the toe. A child's shoe should never be too small.

Never neglect infections of the feet. Parents should regularly examine the feet of their children for infections, skin diseases or bony deformities and during the summer months children should not be encouraged to walk barefoot.

Ringworm of the foot is a common infection caused by a parasite usually picked up in bathhouses, baths, beaches and other localities where many walk barefoot. Ringworm requires careful attention.

Proper care of the feet of the young will prevent much physical discomfort in adult life while carelessness may result in a handicap to the future career of the child.

Gassers, Electricians Claim Part in Leadership of Torrid Indus League Race

BY BOB RIBERTRICK
Sports Editor The Star

Who said that National league pennant struggle was tough? If there is any one looking for a really close battle for pennant they might adjust their binoculars for close range observation and take a couple of good squints at the Industrial softball league of our own city of Marion.

The schedule in the Industrial league is more than half completed and four of the eight teams are securely deadlocked in first place. All have six wins to their credit and all have two losses. That gentlemen is what Webster means when he defined the meaning of the word "tight".

Electricians Downed

The downfall of the C. D. & M. at the hands of the Marion Steam Shovel yesterday by an 8-5 score coupled with victories by the Gasco Nine, Excavator Alloy and Eagles.

Gasco club pulled a game with Huber out of the fire in the seventh inning with a two-run rally that made the final score 2-1.

The Eric put up a great battle before succumbing to the Gasco Nine. Freddie Vestal and Fred Richards put on a classy mound duel with the edge going to Richards. He gave the Eric only three hits while the winners were collecting seven. The Gasco took 20 lead but saw it whittled down to 2-1 in the fifth frame as the Eric threatened to assume serious proportions. Another tally in the first of the seventh put the game on ice for the Gasco.

Maryland Wins

The C. D. & M. minus the services of Bob Merchant, Bob Gamble and Ray Applegate caused some anomalous moments for the Steam Shovel despite the loss of the three first stragglers. The 1931 League champs jumped into a five run lead in the early innings but couldn't hold it. In the face of a determined Shovel assault Kochensperger and Fetter led the twirling for the Electricians in the absence of Applegate and Gamble. The losers outfit the Shovel 7-5 but while they were getting the hits the Shovel was doing about the more profitable business of getting runs. After all that's what they day off with in this game.

Just when the Huber was ready to pack up their bats and start the celebration over having won their third game of the season "Dumb" Sheehe, the outfielder of macaw proportions came to bat for the Eagles Lodge team. When he had finished bunting the Huber was again on the losing end of a 2-1 score. Sheehe waited until the seventh inning for his little act. It consisted of coming to bat with the score 1-0 for the Huber and two men on base and smacking out a double that scored both men and hoisted the Eagles into a tie for first place. Kelling up to that time had given up only four hits. That was the fifth and proved to be the last. But it was one too many. Art Amick limited the Huber to two strikes both in the second frame. Aside from that one hitting Amick allowed only one Huber man to advance past second.

The Excavator Alloy literally grabbed itself by the bootstraps and jerked itself into seventh place by taking a 21 decision from the
